STANLEY URGES BILL TO HIT STEEL TRUST

WOULD PROHIBIT MINING OR MANUFACTURING COMPANIES OWNING RAIL-ROAD STOCK.

SCORES COMMERCE LAW

Declares Commodities Clause is "A Joke and a Sham" in Hearing House Committee.—Washington Affairs.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Jan. 21.—"The commodities of the interstate commerce law is a joke and a sham. It is open at both ends. It is not worth the paper it is written on," said Representative A. O. Stanley, at a public hearing today before the house commerce committee.

Representative Stanley was advocating the passage of his bill aimed at the United States steel corporation to prohibit mining or manufacturing companies from owning railroad which transport their goods. His measure was introduced last August as the result of the long investigation of steel corporation affairs made under his direction.

"What use is there in saying that railroads shall not own mining companies?" Score of Witnesses.

A score of people on the witness list when the house committee on ways and means today resumed its hearing, were supplemental to those who testified yesterday regarding citrus fruit, spice, tallow, nursery stock, and other articles. Chairman Underwood has been indicating the general ideas of the committee from time to time during the testimony. Much of the evidence on the various schedules has borne on labor costs as a vital factor in the consideration of the tariff. Mr. Underwood has indicated that while the committee feels that it is important it is not the only consideration in solving the problem of the difference in the production cost.

Value of Management.

"The management, the man at the head of the plantation or factory," says Mr. Underwood, "sometimes performs services worth a great deal more than all the labor cost by reason of his being a man of executive ability, and on getting work out of his labor, and of generally getting results, I think this is generally true of all agricultural questions."

Revised Monetary System.

Former representatives Charles N. Fowler, of New Jersey, outlined to the house currency reform committee to day his suggestions for revision of the monetary system. He proposed that all national banks be authorized to do commercial savings and trust company business, and make note issue as Canadian banks do; that all "holding companies" of banks be prohibited that all banks be compelled to carry the same amount of reserve always in gold.

All banks should be under federal control he contended, as banking was interstate business, and that clearing houses should be established at all financial centers to be designated as commercial zones, under the management of boards of control elected by the banks. A banker's council to act as a court of appeal for each zone composed of business men and bankers he also proposed. A deputy United States comptroller would preside over each board.

"The United States either should submit the Panama free toll question to impartial arbitration or retire from the position we have taken," was the declaration of Senator Root in the senate today in a speech favoring repeal of the free toll provision of the new Panama canal act. Senator Root took the position that congress should not have passed a law last summer that discriminated against foreign shipping and granting free toll to American coastwise shipping. This action, he declared, had been a source of great regret to multitudes of fellow citizens and "had created a painful impression throughout the world."

Senator Root was an active opponent of the free toll provision when the canal act passed last August and his speech today opened a fight to secure an amendment of the law before it goes into effect.

CHARGED DEFRAUDING DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Conspiracy to Cheat Former Sheboygan District Attorney Out of $6,300 Charged in Suit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Ashland, Jan. 21.—The case of general interest now being tried in the circuit court here is that of the state versus Louis De Ryder, alias George Smith, which was brought here on a charge of venue from Sheboygan. It is charged that De Ryder with others formed a conspiracy to cheat and defraud Charles Voight, former district attorney of Sheboygan county out of $6,300, which they succeeded in doing by selling him stock in a fake mining concern, in Colorado, this being called the Queen Princess Copper Mining Company. De Ryder was the only one of the swindlers caught.

Farmer Living Near Oshkosh Escapes In Peculiar Manner When Hit By Train.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Oshkosh, Jan. 21.—A farmer named Ernest Marth, residing in the town of Neikini was the victim of a peculiar railroad accident last night. While crossing the Soo line at the Black Wolf crossing a train bound for Fond du Lac struck his wagon demolishing it. The horse escaped uninjured but when search was made for Marth no trace of him could be found. The railroad officials wired ahead to North Fond du Lac and a search of the train was made there with the result that he was found clinging to a pilot of the engine with his buffalo robe wrapped about him. It is believed that the fur coat he wore and the robe saved his life. He was bruised but not badly injured.

COLD WAVE CAUSES SUFFERING IN OHIO

River is Slowly Receding. But Cold Causes Serious Conditions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 21.—Although the Ohio river gradually is subsiding the cold wave which started yesterday has caused more suffering among flood victims than at any time during the high water. The river this morning showed a fall of 3 of a foot. Alarm at Shawneetown, Illinois, 75 miles below Evansville was subsided, but the inhabitants were still prepared to flee at a moment's notice. The Boy Scouts organization and men are still patrolling the levee which protects the town.

Governor of Delaware Asks Rigid Regulation of Marriages in State.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Dover, Dela., Jan. 21.—Revision of the marriage laws of the state in order to restrain youthful hasty marriages and to prevent elopements in the state from other sections of the country was the principal recommendation of Gov. Charles R. Miller, in his inaugural address today. Gov. Miller is a republican while all the other state officers are democrats. The democrats also control the legislature and will select a United States senator to succeed Harry A. Richardson, republican.

MILWAUKEE WOMAN WAS MOST SEVERELY BURNED.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Kate Walters, 20, 1814 Vliet street, was perhaps fatally burned this morning when an explosion occurred while she was pouring oil into the kitchen stove. The woman was enveloped by the flames. She rushed terror stricken from her home into the cold air before her horrified husband could seize her. Down the street she ran like a flaming torch and it was only when she became exhausted that she fell unconscious. Men hearing her screams of pain ran to her assistance, tore off their coats and smothered the flames. The woman was hurried to the Emergency hospital where her condition is said to be critical. The fire department was called to the home and extinguished the small blazes.

HAS TWO NARROW ESCAPES FROM DEATH IN ONE DAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Fond du Lac, Jan. 21.—After narrowly escaping death from the wheels of a passenger train, Albert Whitsford, 264 West Johnson street was nearly drowned by jumping from the railroad trestle near West Division street to the river below. He broke his right arm and sustained other bruises. Whitsford and William Walters, were crossing the trestle and had reached about the center of the structure when they noticed the approach of the train. Walters hung to the lower part of the bridge and Whitsford jumped to the ice breaking through into the river. He is now at the hospital.

NATIONAL COMMERCE CONFERENCE BEGINS

Delegates Welcomed to Washington by Secretary of Commerce and Labor Charles Nagel.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which grew out of the national commercial conference which met in this city in April of last year, opened its first annual meeting with a large attendance of delegates and visiting representatives of commercial and industrial interests in all parts of the United States. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States will remain in session until Thursday inclusive and interesting programs have been prepared for every day of the convention.

This being the opening day of the session, the delegates were welcomed to Washington by Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor. The list of speakers at the session of the opening day included, in addition to Secretary Nagel, Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York, Representative Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, Carter Glass of Virginia, Chairman of the House Sub-Committee on Banking and Currency; Willard J. Curr, Director of the Consular Service; Frank W. Nixon of the Railway Business Association; President M. B. Trezevant of the American Association of Commercial Executives and E. A. Filene, Vice President of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce.

Many important subjects will come up for consideration and discussion during this convention, among them the creation of a permanent tariff commission, suggested by the Merchants' Association of New York, the Manufacturers' Association of Beaver County, Pa., and the National Association of Tanners; the recognition of the Republic of China, endorsed by various state organizations; the maintenance and extension of the civil service law; a bill providing for co-operation of the states in encouraging instruction in agriculture, the trades and industries, and home economics in secondary schools, etc.

President and Mrs. Taft will receive and entertain the delegates at the White House tomorrow afternoon and in the evening the first annual banquet will be held with President Taft, Speaker Clark and Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, as the principal speakers.

Favor Tariff Board.

When the first annual convention of the chambers of commerce of the United States was called to order today it found a formidable program of business prepared for it by its board of directors. Two of the principal ends the convention will strive to accomplish will be the continuation of President Taft's tariff board of some sort, sitting body corporate and incorporation for the association by act of congress.

Organization of the chamber was the first matter on the program.

A constitution and by-laws had been prepared by the directors and it was indicated that the discussion of the various provisions would not be prolonged.

Nominating committees composed of one member from each state delegation and ten members representing national trade organizations got down to work early and will bring in a ticket to be voted Thursday.

EXPECT TO CAPTURE BANDIT WHO KILLED CHICAGO DETECTIVE

Chief of Police McWeeny Issues Orders to "Get" Chauffeur Who Murdered Hart—Woman Gives Aid.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Frank Madia, owner of a Michigan avenue garage, to be used as a fence and rendezvous by the motor bandits, was surrendered to the police today by his attorney after information concerning his whereabouts had been furnished by Isabel Hastings in whose apartment Detective Peter Hart was shot and killed yesterday by Robert Webb.

Madia admitted that he had purchased diamonds and watches from James R. Perry confessed leader of the gang, but said he did not know they were stolen.

"I knew Perry for some time and he frequently came to my place of business," he said. "Usually he was accompanied by two other men. Perry was always referred to by his companions as 'Cigarette Bill.'

Fifty detectives today led in the city wide search for Webb. A house to house canvass of the neighborhood in the vicinity of the building where the shooting occurred has been ordered by Capt. Lavin in the hope that Webb's hiding place may be disclosed.

Orders also have been given to search every public and private garage on the south side in the hunt for the murderer.

Order to "Get" Webb.

Chief of Police McWeeny, in an order issued today instructed his subordinates to "get" Robert alias Teddie Webb, chauffeur for the auto bandits, who shot and killed Detective Peter Hart yesterday, dead or alive.

After assigning every available detective to search for Hart's slayer, Chief McWeeny said he expected Webb to be arrested within a few hours.

"We never will rest until we have caught this fellow," said Chief McWeeny. "He is a desperate character and it is not safe for him to be at large."

Woman Makes Admission.

Mrs. Isabel Hastings, in whose apartment the murder of detective Hart occurred broke down and made a number of important admissions when questioned by the police today. She is said to have given information regarding Webb which is expected to lead to his capture.

"I knew Webb was a hold-up man, but I loved him in spite of that," the woman said. "I had been his sweetheart for a year, and saw him nearly every day. He always had money and of course, I guessed where he got it, but I never talked to him about it."

HALL & HUEBELSENDS OUT LETTER TO RURAL TEACHERS

County Superintendent Reports Conditions Generally Favorable In Country Schools.

"Since September I have visited most of the schools in the county. In a large share of the districts I have found encouraging conditions; people more anxious for a good school, attendance improving, some new books and equipment added, buildings repaired or painted. Usually the teachers are maintaining good discipline, striving to get the work graded by course of study, and working harmoniously with the people of the district."

The foregoing is the opening paragraph of a letter prepared by Supt. O. D. Antisdell, and which is being sent out to the rural teachers of the county today by Deputy Supt. Miss Hemingway. Continuing the letter reads:

"But there are some districts where teacher, pupils and people need more interest in their work before they can have a good school. Of course YOU are not such a teacher. But are you in such a district? Then let your enthusiasm, careful planning and energetic work arouse everyone in the district and make all your helpers to a new and greater work in that school!"

Mr. Antisdell calls attention to various specific matters among which is the teachers' meeting at Beloit on March 15; the southern Wisconsin teachers' meeting at Madison Feb. 14 and 15; the dates for diploma examinations at the various places May 22 to 23; the Perry memorial exercises on May 15; and other matters. The report closes with the following statement with reference to the teachers' pension law and with reference to the teaching work in general:

"You come under this law if you were not teaching in Wisconsin public schools the winter of 1911, and your school board is obliged to keep one per cent of your salary each month. Two per cent if you have taught more than ten years. Take this over with them."

"I shall be pleased to hear how your school is doing, or to have you call at the office. There is much for us to do, but much to encourage us. Let us strive for a still greater uplift in the schools the rest of the year. The legislature is likely to pass some laws specially helpful to the rural schools. Make your work strong, thorough and interesting; by daily preparation and planning, and by more careful assignment of lessons and rigid testing of results. We are working in a great cause. Let it inspire us to greater efforts and splendid results."

COMMERCIAL CLUB SETS ANNUAL MEETING DATE.

To Be Held at Myers Hotel on Evening of February 12—Club Indorses Penny Postage.

Lincoln's birthday, February 12, has been designated as the time for the next annual meeting of the Janesville Commercial Club. This decision was reached at a meeting of the directors held at noon yesterday. It was also agreed that a primary election by mail will be held for the election of new directors. The directors passed a resolution endorsing the stand of President Taft in favor of penny postage. All the directors but two were present at the meeting.

IS BROTHER JOSEPH VICTIM OF LEPROSY?

REPORTED THAT FORMER JANESEVILLE RESIDENT IS DEAD ON MOLOKAI ISLAND LEPER COLONY.

MAY BE ONLY A RUMOR

Letters Received Just Before Christmas by Janesville Friends Denied Story He Had Contracted Disease.

This morning's Milwaukee papers publish a report that Brother Joseph Dutton, a former resident of Janesville who for years has been in charge of the leper colony on Molokai Island of the Hawaiian group, is dead from the same disease which his little colony has suffered from. The dispatch eviteenth regiment and to other friends in the city have been received regularly. The dispatch from New York is as follows:

Brother Joseph.

Brother Joseph, 69 year old successor to Father Damien in charge of the leper colony on the island of Molokai, Hawaii, is dead, a victim of the disease which took the life of Father

Damien and of the thousands of other men and women who have been sent to the island from all over the world, suffering from leprosy.

Brother Joseph was the name by which Ira Barnes Dutton was known in clerical life and among the lepers. He was born in Vermont and spent his early life in this city where he was a member of the Methodist church. In 1857 he was a student at Milton Academy. Served in Civil War.

He enlisted on Sept. 9, 1861 in company E, Thirteenth Wisconsin Infantry and was gradually promoted until on March 24, 1865, he was made assistant quartermaster of the United States volunteers. He continued in military service for several years following the close of the war, serving as assistant quartermaster at New Orleans.

Entering the communion of the Roman Catholic church, he was ordained a lay brother and given the name of Brother Joseph, entering the Trappist monastery at Gethsemane, Ky. Here he read much of the work of Father Damien among the lepers on Molokai and when that priest became afflicted with the disease, Brother Joseph determined that he would go to the aid of the aged man.

Since 1866 he has labored among the lepers, administered the last sacraments and helped them to build the Baldwin home for lepers, a village on the island, which up to the time he went there had not a house on it. When Father Damien died twenty-four years ago, Brother Joseph assumed entire charge of the government of the island.

DON'T SCOLD CROSS, IRRITABLE CHILDREN

SOUR, BREATH FEVERISH, BOWELS CLOGGED, GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Mother! look at the tongue! see if it is coated. If your child is listless, drooping isn't sleeping well is restless doesn't eat heartily or is cross irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomachache, diarrhea, sore throat or is full of cold, it means the little ones' stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and clogged up waste and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours the foul, decaying constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well and smiling child shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, saffron and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator or needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Are You Subject to Constipation

Here is a Simple Way of Correcting it Instantly Before it Becomes Chronic.

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salt mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgeative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi. It does not hide behind a high sounding name but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative liniment. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is so compounded, and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorsers of Syrup Pepsi are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsi.

It is a fact that millions of families have Syrup Pepsi constantly in the house, homes like those of Mrs. G. B. Pruitt, Berea, Ky., who used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsi as a laxative tonic. Mrs. Pruitt writes that it so strengthened and cleansed her system that she was quickly relieved of a severe cough which had troubled her for months. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the Better accommodations for travelers between Monroe and Janesville on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, is the object of a resolution drawn up by the Monroe Business Men's association and presented to the state railroad commission.

A petition is now being circulated among the citizens of Monroe in favor of two extra trains. They ask that one train be scheduled to leave at seven o'clock in the morning arriving at Mineral Point about ten o'clock, and that a second train be scheduled to leave Mineral Point at five o'clock in the afternoon arriving in Janesville at eight in the evening.

needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant tasting, mild and non-griping. Unlike harsh physics it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsi, and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

modern engines demand a heavier rail than that was used a few years ago. The Northwestern on main lines uses hundred pound rails on the new sections which have been built within a short time. On the new division from Sparta to Milwaukee one hundred and twenty-five pound rails were used exclusively. On the Great Northern, the rails are nearly all of the hundred and twenty-five pound variety, these heavy rails are necessary on that road because that company runs the heaviest type of locomotive manufactured for freight use. On the St. Paul main line all rails are of the heavier type and these facts disprove the statement that rails over one hundred pounds weight are not practical.

Hughes Jennings of the Detroit Tigers is the American league manager most entitled to worry. His case looks even more hopeless than does that of Stovall of St. Louis. Four years ago Jennings was competing for the world's championship. In 1912 the only thing that kept his club from the depths was the .410 batting eye of Ty Cobb. What if he should lose Ty? Jean Dubuc and Sam Crawford also threaten to leave the Tigers, unless they get a substantial raise in salary. If Hughes isn't worrying considerably he must be different from the rest of us.

It certainly looks as if the Tigers would fall below Chance's Highlanders this year. So will the St. Louis Browns. Tis said that Chance's ambition for this year is to outdo those teams and also overhaul the Cleveland Naps and the Chicago White Sox, thus finding in the first division.

John Evers' chief handicap as manager of the Chicago Cubs in 1913 will be lack of a star pitcher. In Bresnahan and Jimmy Archer he now only has the best catching staff in the National league, but in the whole history of baseball. If he had a Wood, a Walsh, a Mathewson, a Bender or a Johnson in the box he might hope to make a great spurt for the National league championship this year. But he hasn't and that explains why he has joined the worry club.

If you think you can play baseball and have been turned down by a big league club don't let that trouble you.

MEET NORMAL TEAM TOMORROW EVENING

Match is Also Scheduled With Madison Team On Local Alleys Next Week.

A team of Janesville bowlers composed of Cook, Gsell, Osborn, Parker and Heise, crack players in the city bowling league, will meet five of Beloit's best bowlers at the Line City alleys tomorrow evening. A close game is anticipated. A number of local fans will probably accompany the team.

Sometime next week, probably on Wednesday evening, a team of Madison bowlers will meet the Janesville men on the Hockett alleys. A return game will also be scheduled at Madison.

After considering the proposal of sending a team to the state tournament at Beaver Dam from every angle, it was decided that it would not be advisable owing to the large expense and other difficulties.

ESCAPED AFTER FIFTEEN YEARS

W. P. Broyles made a successful escape after fifteen years of suffering from kidney and bladder troubles. Foley Kidney Pills released him and will do just the same for others. He says: "They cure a most severe backache with painful bladder irregularities, and they do all you claim for them." Take the "direct road" to health and strength by using Foley Kidney Pills for backache, rheumatism, weak, sore kidneys and bladder irregularities. They are the best medicine you can buy for kidney and bladder ailments. Badger Drug Co.

The Theatre

"THE MILITARY GIRL"

"The Military Girl," a musical comedy of the most advanced type recently closed a sensational success in Chicago where it ran continuously for more than five months. Since taking the "road" this musical comedy with its big cast head by Willie Dunlap and Frances Warren has more than duplicated its Chicago success. The management of the Myers Theatre is especially fortunate in securing this attraction for Thursday January 23. The play was written by Cecil Lear; and while free from all vulgarity and horse play it keeps the audience in a happy frame of mind with intermittent bursts of laughter guaranteed not to be more than a minute apart from start to finish. Comedy is the principal ingredient used in weaving together a pot-pourri of songs, dances and novel situations although a dainty love story is developed which is carefully sustained throughout the action of the piece. The story has to do with the meeting of a company of military boys encamped in the Adirondacks and a colony of summer girls from a near-by fashionable resort. The two scenes are especially handsome, the first showing the white tents of the military camp nesting in the forests of the Adirondacks with the hills and valleys forming a beautiful vista in the distance. The second act transpired in the large drawing room of a handsome summer home. The company assisting Mr. Dunlap and Miss Warren is a large and capable one including Bessie Merrill, Sam Thompson, Beth Hardy, Jay Collins, Raymond Osborne and many others, and with a comedy chorus trained by that famous producer of plays Ned Way.

That the United States Baseball League, which was seen and heard a little while at the beginning of the 1912 season, will be a factor in baseball again this year because a certainty the other day when the league incorporated at Trenton, N. J., with a capital stock of $125,000. The league is to include only eastern cities—Reading, Richmond, New York, Buffalo, Baltimore, Washington, Trenton, Brooklyn and Syracuse. William Abbott Witman, president of last year's organization, will be president again this year.

Joe Choynski, the famous old warrior of the prize ring, who was one of the greatest fighters in the world of his weight back in the 90's and is now physical director of the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, thinks Tommy Gavigan, the Cleveland middleweight another Fitzsimmons. "He is one of the most promising middleweights I have seen in a long time," says Choynski. "He is a cool-headed boy, very good tempered, and he appears to have two good hands. In my opinion Gavigan will be a topnotcher in a short time."

"THE DIVORCE QUESTION."

Rowland & Clifford will produce at Myers Theatre, Saturday, Feb. 1, for a special return engagement, matinee and evening, William Anthony McGuire's stirring play, "The Divorce Question" which ran 107 performances at McVicker's Theatre in Chicago and received the unanimous support alike of press, public and clergy.

The theme of the play is an argument against divorce, the main idea being that the next generation must be considered in laws enacted by the present generation, taking the stand that the purpose of marriage in the propagation of humanity by the production of children and the definite and refuted idea contained is that every child has a right to its parents.

The story of the play shows that pathetic phase of life wherein marriage has been adopted as the legitimate means of adultery and wherein two children are sacrificed to the selfishness of the new moral code.

The degradation to which the homeless children fall—the horrible agony of the homeless, parentless girl who becomes the victim of white slavery and who cannot be received later into the homes of her parents because of their subsequent marriage and children.

This condition is only equalled by the wild grief of the boy who has become addicted to morphine in order to drown cognizance of a terrible existence.

The depths to which these poor children have fallen seems more terrible when the priest produces statistics to show that they are but two of a million and a half of such cases brought about by divorce.

The remorse of the parents upon seeing the result of their actions also becomes pitiful, but their selfish ideas of life prevent them from understanding what they have done, until when almost too late they see the enormity of their offense and through the efforts of the priest strive to save the remnants of their flesh and blood.

W. H. Chapman, Winnebago, Neb., tells how he did it. "My two children had a very bad cough and doctor's medicines did them no good. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and before it was all used the children were free and cured of their cough. I saved a doctor's bill for one 25¢ bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." A mean stuffy cold, with hoarse, wheezy breathing is just the kind that runs into bronchitis or pneumonia. PORK BARREL APPROPRIATION.

For want of a better name, the measure which provides for all sorts of wild cat appropriations is known as the "pork barrel" bill, and any congressman who fails to be represented by some sort of demand, is considered recreant to his constituency.

This bill is always presented, just before congress adjourns, and it is sure to pass, because so many congressmen are mutually interested. The bill last year called for fifty-three million dollars, and included everything from rivers and harbors to public buildings.

Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio contributes an article to the "World's Work" for February, on "Pork Barrel Appropriations," which is interesting reading. He claims that the average congressman is expected to secure an appropriation of at least $100,000 for his district, every term, and after discussing our eleven navy-yards and other extravagances, says:

"The Red River in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas is another example of ill-advised improvements. The government has expended about $3,000,000 on that stream. For the year 1911 traffic over this stretch of 476 miles below Fulton Harbor, aside from the sawlogs which could be floated without any improvements, was 10 tons of grain, 16 tons of provisions, 20 tons of fish, and 10 tons of ice. In all, 62 tons were carried on these 476 miles of river. The River and Harbor bill of 1912 carries an appropriation of $50,000 for this stretch of the Red river. That is at the rate of $806 for every ton of merchandise or grain carried on that river the preceding year. The amount expended for the year is practically eight times as much as all the value of the merchandise and freight carried. Two years ago it was 83 tons, but it dropped to 62 tons in 1911.

Magnificent public buildings are erected in small towns and inaccessible country seats, not because they are needed, not because the public service will suffer from lack of them—but because a congressman feels that he should bring home something to his district from the public treasury to show his constituents that he is alive to their welfare and is alert at Washington. Political benefits rather than governmental necessities are the motives uppermost in framing these bills. Let me cite the instances of a few unjustified public buildings scattered here and there through the country. Statesville, N. C., with a population of less than 6,000, boasts a public building which, together with the lot, cost $77,127. Biloxi, Miss., is proud of the munificence of a government which has expended $125,000 for a public building in that city of nine thousand souls. Aberdeen, in that same state, can boast of the efficiency of its representative in congress who secured from the public vaults the sum of $75,763 for its public building. Aberdeen is a delightful Southern village of about four thousand inhabitants.

"Pierre, S. D., is typical. There are 4,200 people in that town. It has cost the government for a building and site in Pierre $175,000. The interest on the investment is approximately $7,000 a year. Is it at all surprising that this is becoming probably the most extravagant government in the world?"

The public crib is mighty inviting, and we all want a hand in. Wisconsin is just as ambitious as other states, and the argument advanced is, "Somebody will get the money, and we might as well have our share."

STERILE PACKAGES.

With the increasing demand for fresh fruits at all seasons of the year has come the difficulty of supplying them in a condition in which the dangers of contamination are largely averted. Decay is one of the limiting factors in the use of fresh fruits. Among the many fruits there is one which is equipped in its native form with a protective covering that calls for more than passing mention. Some time ago The Journal of the American Medical Association emphasized the advantages afforded by the banana as a wholesome food and ventured the suggestion that this fruit, though growing in popularity, is still underestimated in American households. The banana consists, in its green state, largely of starch and water. The essential change during the process of ripening is a conversion of the starch into sugar. The rate of ripening is dependent on the temperature. The edible portion of each fruit is packed away in a peel which serves a more useful purpose than has hitherto been realized. Experiments on the fruit in different stages show that the inner portions of the pulp of sound bananas are practically sterile. The peel is singularly resistant to invasion by bacteria. Even when bananas were immersed in fluids containing disease germs they did not penetrate into the interior. The probability of infection through the peel is therefore slight, though germs on the peel might be transferred to the consumer's fingers and thence to the mouth. This is an interesting example of a food delivered by nature in practically sterile packages. Nature's wholesome service should not be undone by careless methods of marketing such foods.

The Journal might have gone a step further, for the orange and grapefruit are equally well protected, and most of nature's products are carefully delivered in sanitary packages.

Eckern eyes McGovern, and McGovern eyes Eckern, and the state senate sits by and smiles. They hold the key to the whole situation, so to speak, and above all is La Follette watching both governor and commissioners and senate. Nice state of affairs for a good republican state that is free of machines in politics!

Already we find just how Mrs. President-elect Woodrow Wilson cooks all sorts of food and we have learned that even Woodrow himself is a very democratic sort of a person who prefers to be called "Woody" by his working men friends. True Jeffersonian simplicity this.

Illinois may have its legislative deadlock. Wyoming legislators their fist fights, but it looks as though the Wisconsin senate was going to have its own time when McGovern starts to oust Eckern by force from his office as insurance commissioner.

The suffragists of England have at last gained a half-hearted recognition of their demands and a bill is in parliament for consideration. Meanwhile the invading army of American suffragists is about to attack Washington, so the fun begins.

It is a question whether Mr. Wilson does not think that perhaps his dancing is not so impressive as Mr. Taft's and that is why the inaugural ball is to be done away with.

Old Ez Jones doesn't chaw lobacker for he quit on New Year's day. And he's grouchy as a grizzly with an achin' tooth, they say. Henry Perkins, he quit smokin' and he feels so tarnal mean, that he's tried to start a scrap with every feller he has seen. So old Ez and Hank they chanced to meet one day in Tibbitt's stove, and we saw a scrap the like of which we'd never seen afore. For they broke up all the furniture and knocked the stovetop down. And they've both been laid up ever since and livin' on the town.

Aimer Hanks has quit hard cider and he is so all fired cross that his wife has thrashed him seven times to show him who is boss. Amos Higgins cut out swearin' and give his feelings vent. Some is nervous, some is gloomy, some is desperit and so it doesn't seem like the same old town we allus used to know. But I guess she will get righted and congenital when the men who have all been swearin' off start in to swearin' on again.

From the Hickeyville Clarion. Postmaster Tibbitts says the fellers have got to quit cuttin' their initials in the postoffice while waitin' for their mail. The fixtures is beginnin' to look like a lot of totem poles and Tibbitts figures that they won't bring much when he sells 'em to his successor, who will be appointed by President Wilson. Miss Any Pringle says she hopes the new Democratic postmaster will be more accommodating than Tibbitts has been. Miss Euphemie Perkins mailed a postal card to Elmer Jones last week and Miss Pringle went to the postoffice and asked the postmaster to let her read it and he wouldn't do it. Miss Pringle says the postoffice ain't no place for a gol durn grouch and she ought to have something to say about it, as she buys more postage stamps than anybody in our village, since she has been sendin' her poems to the magazines.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS

what good painting is and who wants the best, will be satisfied if he gets us to do his work, because we use only the best materials that can be bought and we hire only skilled mechanics. We aim to carry out our contracts to the letter and we try to give our customers better value than they expect to receive. This policy is the reason for our many permanent customers, who, when they want painting done, always send to.

CITY WILL REFUSE TO SETTLE CHARGES FOR RE-ASSESSMENT

Bill of $3,000 Considered Illegal and Payment Will Be Contested Perhaps to Supreme Court.

The city of Janesville will refuse to pay the charge of $3,000 made by the state tax commission for the reassessment of real and personal property here in the latter part of 1911. If necessary the city will make a test case of the matter and will take it up to the state supreme court for a decision, according to City Attorney W. M. Dougherty.

Mr. Dougherty has already filed a report on the case with the mayor and city commissioners in which he advised that the charge was not legally and could not rightfully be collected. He stated today in discussing the situation, that he would welcome a settlement in some amicable way and would ask for a conference with the district attorney, county clerk and county treasurer.

The city made no request for a new assessment and had absolutely nothing to do with the carrying out of the same. The entire management was in the hands of the tax commission which hired the assessors and audited the accounts. The city did not even know how much the transaction cost until the certification was received from the county clerk. The charge is further contended to be unjust for the reason that it includes interest on the款 from the time the bills were audited by the tax commission secretary until presented to the county clerk to be placed on the tax roll.

While the power to make the reassessment is not challenged, Mr. Dougherty believes that the tax commission as an administrative body should have the expenses which it incurs in the performance of its duties as outlined by the state law, paid out of the state treasury.

The reassessment item is held especially unreasonable inasmuch as it is made by a state commission, which it is claimed, is thus usurping legislative powers. If the city is in debt to the tax commission, and the charge is not the form of a tax, then it is contended that the whole matter is illegal as there are certain ways outlined by which only the city can contract debts.

COLD WAVE COMING SAYS WEATHER MAN

Washington Authorities Predict Colder Weather Due This Evening in Middle West.

The week will open with a cold wave over the northwest and central west. It will extend into eastern Colorado, Kansas and the lower Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys and temperatures will also be low west of the Rocky Mountains.

The cold wave will extend eastward and southeastward in modified form, reaching the Atlantic and east coast states about the middle of the week and continuing for a day or two. There will be a reaction to nearly normal conditions over the northwest and extreme west after Tuesday and over the central west after the middle of the week.

A disturbance now over the upper Mississippi valley and the central plains states will move eastward attended by rains and snows that will reach the Atlantic states by Tuesday or Tuesday night and will be followed by generally fair weather for a day or two.

Another disturbance will probably appear over the extreme northwest about the middle of the week. It will be attended by local snows over the northwest and by snows and rains to the eastward and southeastward, reaching the eastern states by the end of the week.

BIDS FOR BUILDING TO BE OPENED SOON

Plans And Specification for Remodeling of Y. M. C. A. Building in Hands of Contractors.

Plans and specifications for the remodeling the new construction with up-to-date equipment for the Janesville Y. M. C. A. building are now in the hands of contractors and their bids will be opened on January 29 at 7:30 p.m. It is now up to the Finance Committee to meet the conditions of the larger subscription which will not be turned over until the amount necessary for the improvement is pledged. Twelve hundred dollars in pledges will be sufficient to bring the total up to $23,000, the estimated cost of the improvements, but the committee has in mind some additional improvements not mentioned in the plans and specifications and suggested by some of the leading contractors, which will need for their incorporation about $1500 more. The additional improvements contemplated are a tile floor for the main floor, stone steps and vestibule lobby for the entrance to the building, and a large illuminated ornamental sign to inform all strangers and visitors to the city that the citizens extend to them hospitality and the "glad hand."

WOMAN'S PAGE

CHAT WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

Is Deception of Husbands Necessary?

"YOU must deceive your husband, if you want him to love you," the cynical woman was saying.

"There was a murmur of protest.

"Nearly every one of you here deceives your husband," went on the cynic.

There was a still stronger murmur of protest.

"I know very well that some of you nearly froze to death last fall at the football games, and you invariably loathed sitting there for hours looking at the scramble, yet you pretended to enjoy it immensely."

"And I know too," she went on mercilessly, "that there are others of you who detest baseball, yet you go every afternoon with apparently the greatest enthusiasm, because your husbands are crazy over it."

"That's being unselfish," said one.

"Call it what you will," replied the cynic. "As for deceiving him about dress and such things," she continued, "there isn't one of us here, and we know it, who isn't a pretense in some way. Every one of us wears false hair. And our figures aren't just as nature made them. And some of us are well acquainted with eyebrow pencils, and have tried the merits of liquid and dry rouge, and various kinds of hair dye. And we don't do these things to please ourselves, but to find favor in the eye of our lord and master."

"If we have to deceive men to keep their love," said one of the women, "it must be then, because the real woman we are isn't lovable."

"Not necessarily," replied the cynic. "But what a woman thinks is lovable, and what a man thinks is lovable, are often two very different things. As a rule, a man loves material things. He wants, primarily, a good-looking, stylish wife. He wants good meals. He wants a well-kept house. He wants material pleasures. And so the woman who doesn't attach so much importance to these things as her husband does, knows, if she desires to keep his love, she must deceive him in these matters, and pretend that his tastes are her tastes. I imagine if every one of you lived just exactly as you would like to, dressed as you would like to, kept house as you would like to, and went about and did the things you would like to, there would be quite a cry of divorcees in this community in a little while. Now isn't this so?"

But the women listening to her remained silent and gazed gloomily into the fire.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"PUT YOURSELF IN HIS PLACE"

SYMPATHY is a virtue. Every one knows that and to state it is a truism, but did it ever occur to you that sympathy is much more than that, that it is in fact an invaluable success asset in a great many relations of life?

Sympathy is a fine art of putting one's self in another one's place, and he who possesses that ability has a key to unlock innumerable doors.

A highly successful business woman, who is a buyer in a large department store, was asked what quality in herself she considered had had the most to do with her success. She thought a few moments and then said, "My ability to put myself in the other fellow's place. It's been a habit of mine ever since I was a child to try to do that, and has helped me more than I can say. When I was behind the counter I always tried to put myself in the customer's place, and see what would get at me best if I were a customer. When I was made a forehand, I had to put myself in the shop girl's place. Of course that wasn't so hard, because I had just been there myself. When I began to do the buying I had to put myself in several people's places; the merchants I bought from, the firm I was working for, and, of course, the customer for whom I was ultimately buying. You've just got to keep doing that all the time if you want to succeed. The moment you begin to think too much of your own point of view, and forget to put yourself in the other fellow's place, you are lost."

You may be interested to know that this is the testimony of one of the highest salaried women in this country.

Of course the ability to put yourself in the other fellow's place is the first stock-in-trade of the story writer. Without it he writes from the outside and is sure to be conventional and artificial.

The advertising man's chief aim is to put himself in the reader's place and find out what there is about the advertised article that will appeal to him most strongly and therefore ought to be played up.

Once in a while you get a thoroughly interesting letter. Sometimes these letters come from clever people, sometimes they are from everyday folks who do not lay claim to any unusual amount of brains, but in either case I think you will find that the writer possessed the ability to put himself in your place, and write the particular news and play up the particular kind of incident that would interest you.

We all desire to possess tact. Now what, after all, is tact but the ability to so identify yourself with the person you are with that you will not say or do anything or grate or offend.

These are a few of the relations of life in which the ability to put one's self in another's place is a valuable asset. I have no space to write more, but you can find them for yourself.

Have you this valuable ability? Can you put yourself in his place?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 24 and not going with any man. The young men like me, but I am not jolly and sociable enough to keep their companionship. What can I do to overcome my trouble? There are not many youngsters around here that I like. Shall I leave home and go somewhere else? Would it be possible for me to keep the attentions of some one without being so very talkative? ANXIOUS ANNIE.

The best way I know of to keep a man interested, is to encourage him to do most of the talking. Discover what he likes, to talk about, learn enough about it to start him going and then listen to him. Let him inform you about everything he can. Look pleasant and intelligent, and have something good to eat when a man comes around. That's a good recipe if you'll follow directions.

Don't leave home. Men are alike everywhere, my dear.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 22 and in love with a man one year younger than myself. He comes to see me every two weeks. I would like to have him call oftener. What can I do to make him? I treat him very nicely when he comes.

I believe he loves me, but he is rather bashful. How can I make him overcome it? Shall I wait for him or give him up and try to find some one else. He is a good man, but very stubborn sometimes. Would he make a good husband?

LOVESHICK LIZZIE.

Don't waste too much time on him.

Lizzie, if he cares for you he'll let you know it sometime. Have some other young man happening in when he's around. It may prove a good tonic for him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Have moving picture shows any good in them? Are they harmful? (2)—Do you believe in palmistry? (3)—Is there anything to the superstition about lucky and unlucky stones? (4)—Do boys really like pretty girls better just because they are pretty? (5)—Are there not more dark-haired than light-haired people? (6)—Some one told me that finger nails grow from the tips. I thought everything grew from the roots.

JUST ME.

(1)—Some moving pictures are very educational, beneficial and entertaining. Some I regret to say, are very harmful, especially to young and inexperienced people. (2)—No. As a game it is amusing. (3)—Nothing at all. You'd be just as lucky on the lucky without them. (4)—Perhaps they do at first, but it's the clever and pleasant girl who holds them. (5)—Yes. (6)—A good many things grow without roots.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a lonely bachelor and know a widow whom I like and who seems to think the same of me. It seems to me as though she never had a good home or a nice husband. She hardly knows how to treat me when I call. I have known her little girl since she was a baby. I have good habits and a steady trade and could make a nice home. Do you think she and I could get along.

LONE INDIAN.

Talk it over with her and see what she has to say. I don't see why you shouldn't get along if you like each other.

The KITCHEN CABINET

FINE estibles of gastronomy are as marked as those of society, and the arrangement of a bill of fare calls for as much fineness as do the functions of a chaperon.

SUGGESTIONS FOR EATABLES.

A most tasty salad may be made at this season, using the large French chestnuts. Cook them until soft, and combine with celery and French dressing. Nothing in the salad line can be more pleasing. Apples may be added, making another form of Waldorf salad.

Sirloin of Beef.—For a small company dinner, try this way of cooking steak: Bone a steak that weighs two and a half pounds. With a small larding needle, lard the top of the beef lengthwise with thin strips of pork. Put two tablespoonfuls of the pork trimmings in a baking pan, add a small carrot, an onion cut fine, a stalk of celery cut in bits, two sprigs of parsley, a bay leaf, half a clove of garlic crushed, and two cloves. Lay the steak in this bed of vegetables, spread over it two tablespoonfuls of fat and place in the oven to roast, turning and basting three times. Place the steak on the platter. Heat two tablespoonfuls of thick cream with a fourth of a cup of grated horseradish. Have three bananas peeled and sliced lengthwise, dipped in flour and fried. Skim the fat from the baking pan, thicken with flour and brown; strain the gravy over the meat, spread the pieces of banana on the meat and serve at once.

Cranberry Surprise.—This is a delicious ice to serve with turkey or fowl. Put a little ice cream in a sherbet cup and cover with a rich cranberry sauce.

Chestnut Cup.—This is a most savory and delicious frozen dish.

A few preserved chestnuts in the bottom of a sherbet cup (these chestnuts are preserved in a thick lemon syrup), then add a spoonful of vanilla ice cream and garnish with a maraschino cherry or a preserved chestnut, or both.

Chocolate Temptation.—Mold chocolate ice cream, and when ready to serve sprinkle with browned almonds; garnish with whipped cream sprinkled with blanched almonds.

Macaroons—Whites of five eggs beaten to stiff froth, three-fourths pound confectionery sugar, two pounds English walnuts chopped fine, vanilla to taste, one ounce dish of fine bread crumbs. Mix in order given, drop small teaspoonful on buttered tins. Let dry in warm oven until top just begins to brown. Do not have just too hot or they will burn instead of drying. These are fine for Christmas.

Meringue Snowballs—Beat three eggs very light, add slowly one cup granulated sugar, three tablespoons water, grated rind of one lemon and all the juice, a cup of flour and a teaspoon of baking powder. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs, and pour batter into buttered custard cups. Steam 35 minutes, turn out and roll in powdered sugar. Serve with lemon sauce: Two tablespoons butter, half cup sugar, one well-beaten egg, grated rind of one lemon. Melt in double boiler, add other ingredients and stir until thick in cream. Mrs. John Graham.

Hors D'oeuvres Printaniere—Cover a leaf-shaped dish with cracked ice. Make a bed of endive, surround it with celery which has been fringed as follows: Cut the stalks in two-inch lengths and slit them carefully in fine slits one inch long, and place them in ice water until they curl. Fill the dish with tiny red and white radishes and the daintiest of shallots.

Vintage Salad—One cupful of Tokay grapes cut in halves and seeded, one cupful of Musaga grapes prepared in the same way. Soak one-half box of granulated gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water, dissolve it by placing the cup in hot water, add it to one cupful of bottled unfermented Catawba juice; when it begins to stiffen, add the grapes and put on ice until ready to serve. Garnish with vine leaves. Pass with the salad wafers in the shape of acorns.

Salad Verdante—Drain and wash one can of peas, and thoroughly mash them. Add two and a half cupfuls of the same stock used for the croquettes and simmer a half hour, then strain through a vegetable-press. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a double boiler, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and stir until thick in cream. Mrs. John Graham.

Hair Came Out By Handfuls

Terrible Itching. Began with Rash. Dandruff Literally Covered Scalp. Entirely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment Within One Month.

3002 Cass St., St. Louis, Mo.—"For five years I suffered with itching of my body and scalp. My trouble began with a rash on my lower limbs which was very annoying and my scalp was literally covered with dandruff. My hair used to come out by the handfuls and the itching of my body and scalp was terrible. I had used almost all the skin remedies on the market with no results, when I wrote for a little Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it gave me instant relief. Within one month's use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment I was entirely cured. I cannot discover one strand of my hair coming out and I have not lost a minute of sleep since using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which entirely cured me of itching of my body and scalp in its worst form. I also find the Cuticura Soap a benefit in shaving." (Signed) Charles Judlin, Dec. 8, 1911.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning palms, shapeless nails and painful finger-ends, a one-eighth Cuticura treatment works wonders. Soak hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment, and wear old, loose gloves during the night. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on the skin and scalp. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

WHEN A LAXATIVE IS NEEDED... "CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills Are Violent—They Act on Bowels As Pepper Acts in nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take off the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter; and, poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A decent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action: a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

A Medical Book Free

By Dr. N. A. Goddard

Modern Methods of treating Chronic Diseases without Operation, has just come from the pen of Dr. Goddard the Milwaukee Specialist and is one of the most interesting as well as instructive little books the doctor has ever written.

If you are a sufferer from Appendicitis, Rupture Gall Stone, Colic, Goitre or Chronic diseases of a private nature, you should avail yourself of his offer to send you this valuable little book free simply for the asking. A postal will bring it to you, in a plain wrapper.

Many so-called surgical diseases, have been proven to be curable by medical treatment, more safely and cheaply by modern medical methods than was believed possible a few years ago.

After you have read this little book, you can consult Dr. Goddard on his monthly visits to Janesville, free of charge and have the satisfaction of knowing that you have secured the expert opinion of a reputable specialist in these matters.

If you have been advised to submit to an operation, surely do not fail to consult him before undergoing such an operation. His advice may save you many weeks of suffering, loss of time and expense, possibly your life. Dr. Goddard will be at the Myers Hotel, Janesville, Tuesday, Jan. 28th, and he makes no charges for a friendly visit, Hours 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

WISCONSIN PIONEER DIES AT MAGNOLIA

George Grant Letts, Who Passed Away Last Week, Had Settled in County in 1848.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cainville Center, Jan. 21.—George Grant Letts was born in Shelby, Orange county, New York, Aug. 31, 1826, and died in Magnolia, Rock county, Wisconsin, Jan. 17, 1912, aged 86 years, 4 months and 10 days. His early life was spent on his father's farm. At the age of twenty-two he came to Wisconsin, settling in Magnolia township on a farm, where he continued to reside until about five years ago when he came to live with his daughter, Mrs. Emma Andrew, at Magnolia, Wis. He was the last survivor of a family of nine children.

On June 1, 1853, he was united in marriage to Miss Cristina Harper. From this union four children were born, of whom three are still living: Mrs. Emma Andrew of Magnolia, Wis.; Mrs. Margaret Colton of Bruce, South Dakota; and Mrs. Belle Townsend of Magnolia, Wis. Mrs. Letts died April 25, 1884.

On July 9, 1885, he was again married to Miss Anna L. Baker. To this union were born four children, of whom only one remains alive—William Letts of Magnolia, Wis. Mrs. Letts died Feb. 24, 1908.

The first few years of Mr. Letts' life in Wisconsin was of the pioneer kind, full of hardships and deprivations, yet devoid of some pleasure and joy. It was a man full of energy and thrift, well known for his possessing the sterling qualities of honesty and integrity, being an upright citizen and a kind-hearted neighbor.

When twelve years of age Brother Letts gave himself to the Lord, was baptized in a creek on his father's farm and united with the Christian church. After moving to Wisconsin he joined the Congregationalists as a charter member when they organized their church here in Magnolia. About twenty-five years ago he united with the Adventist church and continued a faithful and honored member and serving as deacon until his death.

Brother Letts was a genuine, whole-souled Christian, one who loved the sacred sanctuary of God and the cause of Jesus Christ, and lived his religion every day. He was patient under all circumstances and always had a kind and cheerful word for every one.

In his domestic life, he was a loving husband, and a very indulgent and affectionate father. His life was consistent Christian life, full of good deeds. His work is over. He sleeps well. Let him rest. When the morning dawns he will awake in the glorious and immortal likeness of his blessed Saviour, whom he loved and served.

He leaves to mourn, besides his four children, twenty-seven grandchildren and sixteen great-grandchildren and many other relatives. May each one strive to imitate his Godly life and so follow their Master and Saviour that they may meet him in the soon-coming kingdom of our God and Father.

Funeral services were held at one o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. B. Andrew, and later from the A. C. church, conducted by Elder O. R. Jenkins and Elder E. B. Arnold, pastor of the church. The pall-bearers were six grandsons: Roy Townsend, Elmer Townsend, George Letts, George, Wilbur and Ray Andrew. Interment was in the West Magnolia cemetery.

GIVES LATEST FACTS AS TO NEW DISEASES

Head of Rockefeller Institute Discusses Infantile Paralysis and Its Causes.

In view of the fact that Janesville has been troubled with several epidemics of infantile paralysis within the past few months the following statement from New York will be read with interest by many.

Infantile paralysis may be communicated by persons who are not themselves subject to that dread malady and yet may be the cause of infecting others, according to the researches of Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the Rockefeller Institute.

This announcement is made by him in a paper published in the current number of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

It was found that typhoid fever could be transmitted by passive carriers, and the same amazing state of affairs now is indicated by Dr. Flexner in the case of poliomyelitis.

Associated with him in this work are Paul F. Clark and Francis F. Fraser. They have demonstrated that the virus of the disease exists in the noses of some perfectly healthy persons who have been in close contact with those afflicted with the disease.

This affords an experimental basis for the belief, which is being fortified by clinical observation, that there are passive carriers of the infection.

Dr. Flexner reports that there was taken to the hospital of the Rockefeller Institute a child four years old suffering from the paralysis, which prevented the use of the leg muscles and seriously interfered with her breathing. The mother and the father were taken in charge by the physicians, who irrigated their noses with salt solution.

The solution was passed through a filter of earthenware and some of the fluid was injected into the veins of a small monkey. The animal became paralyzed in the legs. Previous experiments have shown that the dust of rooms in which patients afflicted with poliomyelitis have been kept has contained the virus.

The manner of the conveyance of the virus, yet continues Dr. Flexner, is not yet wholly worked out. The presence of the virus has been established on the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and intestines of persons ill from poliomyelitis and on the mucous membrane of the nose and throat of monkeys in which the disease has been experimentally produced.

The general delivery is a place which accommodates the traveling public by forwarding mail with the utmost care and accuracy to the wrong county, town and state. It is an adjunct of the postoffice department which causes postage to be paid by traveling men to exercise their ingenuity in inventing new, intricate and soulful cuss-words.

The rural general delivery is usually presided over by a de pressed man with a sloping forehead, who knows there is no mail for the applicant because he is looking day before yesterday.

However, if the applicant insists, he will look again, and generally manages to hit the wrong box. Nearly all traveling salesmen now carry a large, blue placard, with the name of the addressee printed in wood type, which they lay down on the general delivery window so that the clerk can see what the letter looks like.

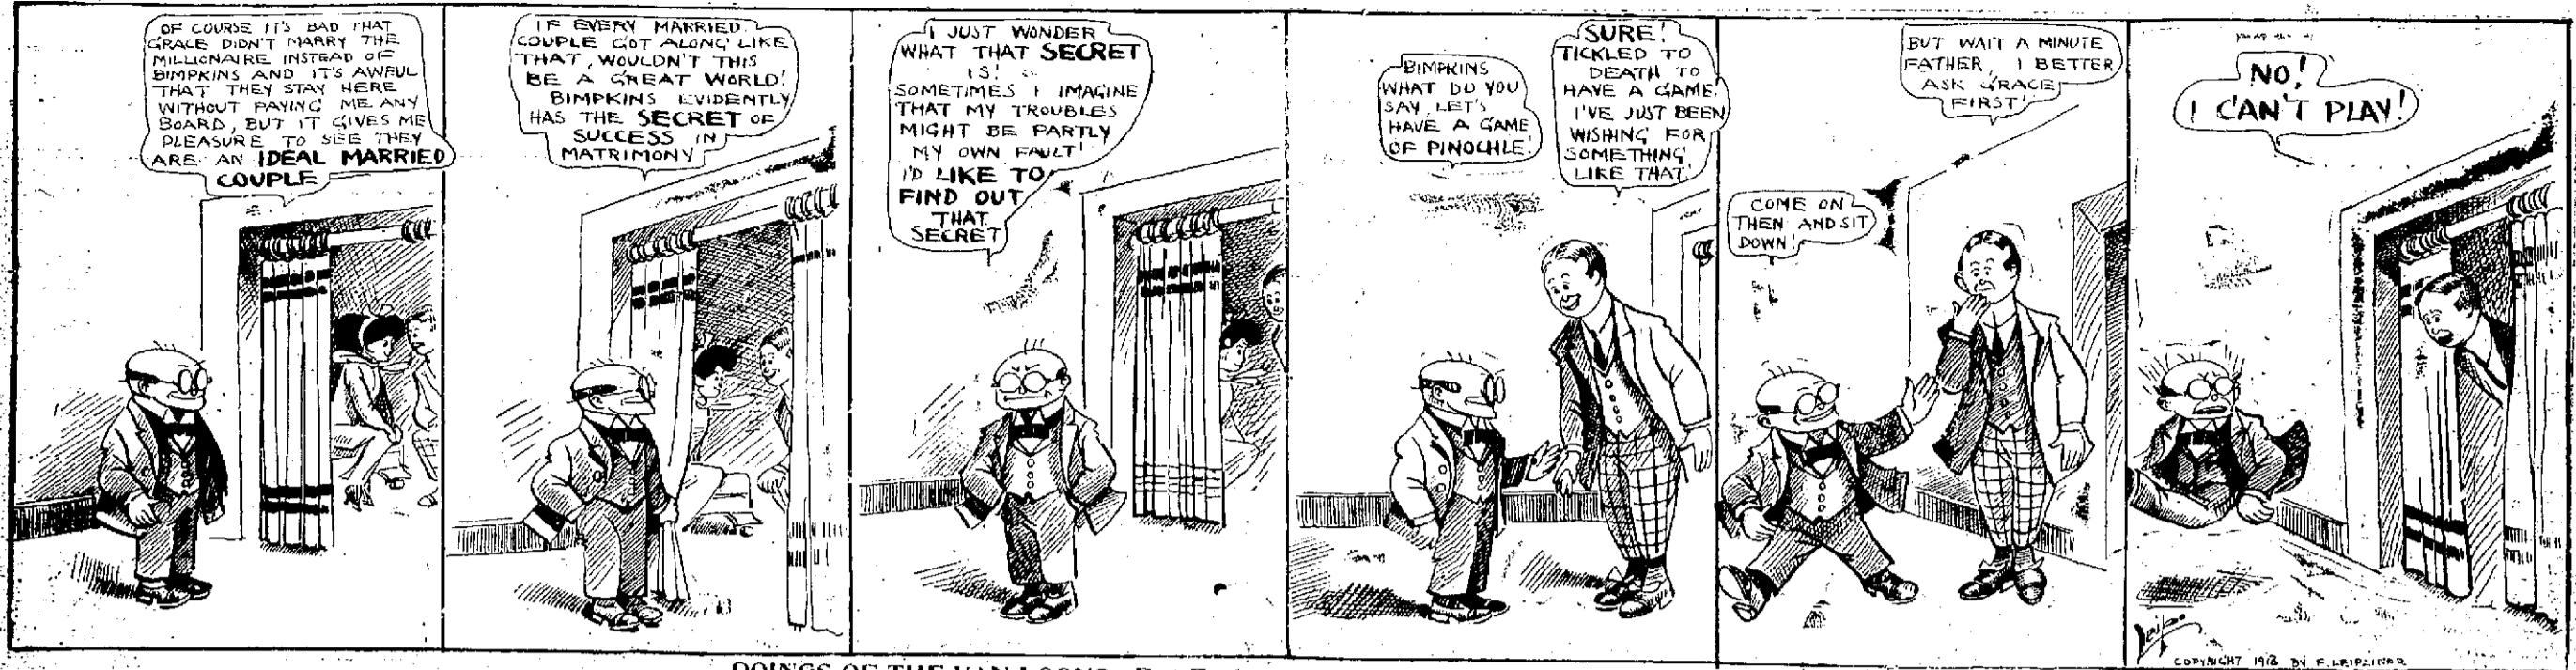

People who get their mail at the general delivery fall into the habit of calling for it several times between trains, in order to see if one of the clerks is not sitting on it. If they see anything in the office which looks like a package they sent to New York for that morning, they go away convinced that the postman is a deep-drawn crook who would steal the popcorn off a Christmas tree. The general delivery patron always has an important letter coming, which was mailed two weeks ago, last Tuesday, and has probably been opened and read by everybody in the office, from the rural carriers up.

The general delivery is used quite promiscuously for love-making purposes, the missives usually being in the form of highly-colored and easily understood postcards, with numerous tender sentiments engrossed upon them, all of which begin with "Hello, kid." Instead of encouraging this harmless interchange of romantic overflow, the postoffice department has put its foot on Cupid's neck and compelled a great many worthy people to rent private boxes. This is an offensive form of paternalism which cannot be too highly condemned.

HOW MRS. BROWN SUFFERED

During Change of Life—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman.

Iola, Kansas.—During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors, but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone theloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others.—Mrs. D. H. BROWN, 809 N. Walnut St., Iola, Kan.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Examine Strange Personality.
A Frenchman, named Marguy, said to possess the hide of an elephant, instead of the ordinary human skin, and therefore believed to be an abnormally constituted person, not accountable for his actions, is to be medically examined at the request of the French attorney general to determine his responsibility for a theft for which he has been imprisoned some months.

Way to Oil a Clock.
When a clock does not run continuously, or stops frequently, the cause is often due to a lack of oil. This may be remedied by saturating a piece of absorbent cotton with kerosene oil and placing it inside the clock, below the pendulum. When the cotton is removed a month or so later it is found to be very dirty. This shows that the fumes of the kerosene oil have not only oiled the clock, but have also cleaned it.—Pictorial Review.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

It has been absolutely shown that rest, fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But it must be admitted that the disease is sometimes "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alternative is a medicine made for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It has conquered this disease again and again. Other cases have been effected where the surroundings were not yet recoveries resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alternative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to the nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need. A recent case follows:

"Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alternative I have been saved from a premature grave. On January 1, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia. My condition became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis bacilli were found. On February 21, 1905, I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung broke and discharged. I grew worse and became very much emaciated. My physician advised that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas June 21 and arrived in Canon City, June 3 very feeble. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that I was worse. I was sent home two weeks later and returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 1, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for consumption. Today I weigh 125 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not a ache nor pain in my lungs, eat well, sleep well and never feel tired." (Signed) A. THER. WEBB.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in all diseases of the respiratory organs. It does not contain poisons, irritants or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. For sale by all leading druggists and Smith Drug Co., McNamee & Busb, Peoples Drug Co., in Janesville.

His eyes ranged over the dim outline of Wade stretched across the saddle, powdered with snow, rested an instant upon Carroll, who had sunk back upon the ground, nursing his injured limb, and then sought the face of Wesson.

"What the hell can we do?"

"Go on; that's all of it; go on till we drop, lad. Come, 'Brick,' my boy, and the scout gripped the Sergeant's shoulder, "you're not the kind to lie down. We've been in worse boxes than this and pulled out. It's up to you and me to make good. Let's crunch some hard-tack and go on; before the whole three of us freeze stiff."

The Sergeant thrust out his hand. "That isn't what's taken the nerve out of me, Sam," he said soberly. "It's thinking of the girl out in all this with those devils."

"Likely as not she ain't," returned the other, tramping the snow under his feet. "I've been thinkin' bout them too. That outfit must have had six hours the start o' us, didn't they?" Hamlin nodded.

"Well, then, they couldn't a ben far from the Cimarron when the storm come. They'd be safe enough under the bluffs; have wood for a fire, and lay that mighty comfortable. That's what them bucks are, all right. Why, damn it, man, we've got to get through. Tain't just our fool lives that's at stake. Brace up!"

"How far have we come?"

"A good ten miles, an' the compass has kep' us straight."

They drew in closer together, and munched a hard cracker apiece, occasionally exchanging a muttered word or two, thrashing their limbs about to keep up circulation, and dampening their lips with snow. They were but dim, spectral shapes in the darkness as the air filled with crystal pellets swept about by a merciless wind, the horses standing tall to the storm and heads drooping. In spite of the light refraction of the snow the eyes could scarcely see two yards away through the smother. Above, about, the ceaseless wind howled, its icy breath chilling to the bone. Carroll clambered stiffly into his saddle, crying and swearing from weakness and pain. The others, stumbling about in the deep snow, which had drifted around them during the brief halt, stripped the blanket from Wade's dead body and tucked it in about Carroll as best they could.

"Now keep kicking and thrashing about, George," ordered the Sergeant sternly. "For God's sake, don't go to sleep, or you'll be where Jim is. We'll haul you out of this, old man Sam, you take the rear, and hit Carroll a whack every few minutes; I'll break trail. Forward now."

He wheeled about, shading his mouth, so as to make the words carry through the storm.

"Do you hear? We're within a half mile o' the river. Stir Carroll up! Beat the life into him! There's shell fire and fire comin'!"

As though startled by some electric shock, Hamlin sprang forward, his limbs strengthening in response to fresh hope, plowed through the snow to Carroll's side, and shook and slapped the fellow into semi-consciousness.

"We're at the river, George!" he cried, jerking up the dangling head. "Wake up, man! Wake up! Do you hear? We'll have a fire in ten minutes!"

The man made a desperate effort, bracing his hands on the horse's neck and staring at his tormentor with dull, unseeing eyes.

"Oh, go to hell!" he muttered, and went down again.

Hamlin struck him twice, his chilled hand tingling to the blow, but the inert figure never moved.

"No use, Sam. We've got to get on, and thaw him out. Get up there, you pony!"

The ghostly shape of the hill was to their right, and they circled its base almost waist-deep in drift. This brought the wind directly into their faces, and the horses barked, dragging back and compelling both men to beat them into submission. Hamlin was jerking at the bit, his back turned so that he could see nothing ahead, but Hamlin, lashing the rear animal with his quirt, still faced the mound, a mere dim shadow through the mists of snow. He saw the flash of yellow flame that leaped from its summit, heard the sharp report of a gun, and saw Wesson crumble up, and go down still clinging to his horse's rein. It came so suddenly, so unexpectedly, that the single living man left scarcely realized what had happened. Yet to sit erect, but held by the taut blanket, and gripping his horse's ice-covered mane. Wesson was ahead now, doggedly crunching a path with his feet, and Hamlin staggered along behind.

Suddenly some awakened instinct in the numb brain of the scout told him of change in their surroundings. He felt rather than saw the difference. They had crossed the sand belt, and the contour of the prairie was rising.

Then the Cimarron was near! Even as the conviction took shape, the ghostly outline of a small elevation loomed through the murk. He stared at it scarce believing, imagining a delusion, and then sent his cracked voice back in a shout on the wind.

"We're thar, 'Brick!' My God, lad, here's the Cimarron!"

He wheeled about, shading his mouth, so as to make the words carry through the storm.

dazed as he was, some swift impulse flung him, headlong, into the snow behind his pony; and even as he fell, his numb fingers gripped for the revolver at his hip. The hidden marksman shot twice, evidently discerning only dim outlines at which to aim; the red of discharge cut the gloom like a knife. One ball buried past Hamlin's head; the other found billet in Wade's horse, and the stricken creature toppled over, bearing its dead burden with him. The Sergeant ripped off his glove, found the trigger with his half-frozen fingers, and fired twice. Then, with an oath, he leaped madly to his feet, and dashed straight at the silent hill.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Unseen Danger.

Once he paused, blinded by the snow, flung up his arm, and fired, imagining he saw the dim shape of a man on the ridge summit. There was no return shot, no visible movement. Reckless, mad with rage, he sprang up the wind-swept side, and reached the crest. It was deserted, except for tracks already nearly obliterated by the fierce wind. Helpless, baffled, the Sergeant stared about him into the driving flakes, his unloved, stiffening hand gripping the cold butt of his Colt, ready for any emergency.

Nothing but vacancy and silence encompassed him. At his feet the snow was still trampled; he could see where the man had kneeled to fire; where he had run down the opposite side of the hill. There had been only one—a white man from the imprint—and he had fled south, vanishing in the smother.

Carroll lay helpless, inert, his head hanging down against the neck of his horse. The Sergeant jerked him erect, roughly beating him into consciousness; nor did he desist until the fellow's eyes opened in a dull stare.

"I'll pound the life out of you unless you brace up, George," he muttered. "That's right—get mad if you want to. It will do you no good. Wait until I get that quit; that will set your blood moving. No! Wake up! Die, nothing! See here, man, there's the river just ahead."

It required an effort for the Sergeant to recover, to realize his true position, and the meaning of this mysterious attack. He was no longer numb with cold or staggering from weakness. The excitement had sent the hot blood pulsing through his veins; had brought back to his heart the fighting instinct. Every desire urged him forward, clamoring for revenge, but the aroused sense of a plainman held him motionless, staring about, listening for any sound. Behind him, down there in the hollow, were huddled the horses of his outfit, scarcely distinguishable from where he stood. If he should venture farther off, he might never be able to find a way back again. Even in the gray light of dawn he could see nothing distinctly a dozen yards distant. And Wesson had the compass. This was the thought which brought him tramping back through the drifts—Wesson! Wade was dead, Carroll little better, but the scout might have been only slightly wounded. He waded through the snow to where the man lay, face downward, his face still gripping the rein. Before Hamlin turned him over, he saw the jagged wound and knew death had been instantaneous. He stared down at the white face, already powdered with snow; then glared about into the murky distances, revolver ready for action, every nerve throbbing. God! If he ever met the murderer!

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

THE HABITS OF YOUTH.

"Sit down, Mrs. Smith," said the great detective.

The woman, with the green fichu started:

"How did you?"

"Very simple, madam," interrupted the great detective.

"One woman in a hundred is named Jones and one glance at you was sufficient to tell me that you are a woman in a thousand; therefore, your name must be Smith."

"I came to talk about my husband," she explained, after she recovered from her slight attack of amazement.

"That is woman's prerogative," smiled the great detective.

"He acts peculiarly, funny, every time he mails a letter. As his correspondence is unusually voluminous, you can imagine that it galls on my nerves. Instead of dropping the letter in the box like an ordinary."

WHAT ARE UPPER WISCONSIN LANDS WORTH? Hon. Edward Nordman, member of the assembly from Langlade county, says in Madison Journal, January 16, 1913: "I have 66 acres under cultivation and it yields $3,000.00 a year." Allowing Mr. Nordman $600 for extra services when the grain farmer is idle, we have a return of $40 per acre. Dr. Hopkins, the greatest authority in the world, (Soil Fertility and Permanent Agriculture, page 487) gives an elaborate table covering cost of cropping and maintaining fertility in which it is shown that lands producing $49 per acre in grains are worth over $400 per acre. This is the basis of land values in Illinois and other States. What then are upper Wisconsin lands worth. We shall be pleased to go fully into this matter with those who write us.
